Investigators – If you are applying for grant or contract funding, you should include IRB review costs in your application budgets using the rates listed above for Investigators with funding. The estimated cost should be commensurate to the proposed study (e.g. 3 year study = 1 initial review, 2 renewals, 2 potential modifications and a study closure). IRB fees are applicable for the length of the study.

IRB fees are non-refundable. Failure to pay invoiced IRB fees may result in delayed close-out of your study. Please contact the Office of the IRB with questions or for additional information.

Fee Waiver – Waiver of IRB fees will be considered for extenuating circumstances. The principal investigator must submit a formal written request for a fee waiver to the IRB Office. The request must include the study title and justification for the fee waiver, and should accompany the initial submission.

IRB Consulting – IRB consulting and/or advisory services may be available for an additional fee. Contact Lori Lupinacci in the IRB Office for more information.
